The team at Import Sports always takes great care of me and my car. These guys really know what they're doing. They don't take advantage of their customers like some mechanics. I have never taken my car to their shop and gotten the dreaded call where they present you with a laundry list of things to fix! Now, of course, I take really good care of my car so if you don't do the same they may find a laundry list of things to fix, but you can trust that it really needs to be done. This is the only shop I trust with my car!

Sam was very professional, provided updates on a timely basis and charged a fair price. The mechanic did a great job on what was suppose to be a simple removal of a 5th wheel hitch but due to old bolts and extended wear, it turned into an extended effort. The mechanic did a great job removing the bolts under these conditions.

Will never take my car back to them. Sam rushed through my car every time i needed work. Never told me everything i needed done the first time leading my motor to have consistent issues and every time I'd bring it back he would tell me i needed a new part when hes the one that built the motor for me. The fabrication work and mechanical upgrades were done very sloppy. Never take your car here to have tuned or built. 20,000 dollars and 2 years later i have found a very knowledgeable fabricator/mechanic that would have done everything i have paid for at half the price and would have looked so much cleaner. Bottom line they just want your money and have no idea what theyre doing.

Thank you to Sam and all of the guy at ISP! A friend of mine uses ISP for his BMW service needs and recommended that I use them instead of the dealership. Being a woman I was hesitant, but I trust his judgement and I am so glad that I did. It was a great experience from beginning to end. I was kept informed during the whole process and the service and price was unbeatable. Import Sports Performance is now the only service center I intend to use.

Prompt and professional, I have been here twice for service for my Supra Turbo and they are clear about what they found during maintenance, recommendations are clearly explained and good at translating my requests into service action items. Only downside is they will not allow you to bring in your own parts, at least motor oil and filter.

After getting the run-around from another service center, we brought our car into Import Sports Performance for a second opinion. We could not be happier with the way we were taken care of here. Sam took the time to explain in great detail the situation and even provided us with a written, detailed, description of the problem and what might have caused it. I have never experienced that level of care, especially since I don't "speak car." They have won a fan for life!

Man, this place is the place to go if you want an honest mechanic. Sam, Steve, and Sean will take care of you. I bought a 97 Toyota Supra not too long ago. It needed a new computer chip and a dyno tune. This place took care of it and it riding smooth.

When I do run into problems, I can call and they will help me right there and then if they can. If not, just need to drop it off and its taken care of. Highly recommended this play for anyone who loves their cars.

The service was good and people were very friendly. They did really good work on my car too and Im very happy with the job they did. What Im not happy about is that I was quoted $100 and the price of a gasket to bolt on my down pipe. I was charged $280 when it was time to pick up the car. Almost 3 times the amount I was expected. If I would have known it would have been that much I could have gone to any of the other 4 shops that quoted me $75-100 for install. This is the main reason I will not be returning to this shop.

After recovering my car from a theft, there wasn't much left. My friend and I built a new motor and I put a lot into new suspension, new exhaust, reupholstering the seats and more. The car drove okay, but something felt off. I needed another set of eyes, and there are no eyes I trust more than Import Sports Performance. I've been taking my car to them for almost 15 years. They found the problem - an unbalanced crank shaft - and put things back together so that it was better than new. I'm still breaking in the motor, there's almost 700 miles on it, and I know that its right. Even with all my experience the words of Dirty Harry are still appropriate, "A man's got to know his limitations." When you've reached your limit, take your car to Import Sports Performance.

The guys at ISP are true professionals. They handled the mechanical rebuild of my Honda with aplomb. They rebuilt my motor with high-end after market parts, provided guidance and help making the right choices for the engine internals, created a custom exhaust and tuned it all with my Hondadata setup. Every step of the way they communicated what was happening, and there were never any surprises when paying the bill.

Import Sports has been great to work with! This is not my first import car I've had built by a shop! It's nice dealing with a shop that knows these types of cars in and out and deals with them daily! I had a full rebuild on a 89 supra! I am more than happy with the final product and was completed in a good time frame! Import Sports will let you choose what you want to do but will suggest great combo set-ups for your car to get the most out of it!! It's nice going to a reputable shop and having confidence in the final product! I look forward to breaking this bad boy engine rebuild in and getting the final tune for performance!! One stop shop that can do it all!! Thank you Import Sports!!

PERFORMANCE SPORTS "bailed me out" 6+ yrs. ago. I criss-crossed posts while installing new battery for my wife's Hyundai--electrical system, wiring, etc...FRIED badly. The repairs were less than $1000, but the quality and timeliness along with "EXCELLENT CUSTOMER SERVICE" was superb. Have since returned for windscreen blades, oil changes, seremptine belts, etc.---always the same quality service and they do say NO if they can not fit me in in a timely fashion, within couple of days. Their hourly rate may be $lightly higher than comparable others in the area, but I can not say I have ANY CAUSE to doubt or mistrust their recommendations or service.

Took 4 months to complete an engine swap on my project vehicle, never kept communication with me as promised, charged me 14 thousand dollars for motor and trans I provided and upon receiving my vehicle my brand new floor mats were covered and stained in oil, my fog lights were disconnected, charged me for parts I provided. At times they admitted they didn't know what they were doing, my vehicle was over heating and they said it was the thermostat and for 14 grand they didn't bother to put in a 30$ thermostat. I ended up finding out it from another source the wrong clutch fan system was causing the overheating. Aside from all that I confronted Phil about why it costed so much extra and he yelled at me and denied any miscommunication or any fault for not informing me of parts over 30$ as promised. Sam promised several times to make the situation right by taking money off the bill and fixing the overheating for free. And taking a few hundred off the bill was all he did. completing the engine swap was about all they did but for 14 grand it was an extremely lazy job and do not recommend importsports to anybody and feel ripped off. If I need help with a expensive process on a vehicle I'll go to Mofab next time

Honest, and do I need to say more? An honest mechanic is like an honest politician, they all say they are, but finding a real one is almost impossible. I brought in a Jag with brake system problem, and these guys told me up front it could be one of several things, and that there was no way to know what the problem was because they car was so old there was no longer any factory support for that vehicle. An easy set up for a royal screwing, or so I thought. But even with no factory support, and not knowing the real problem, these guys nailed the problem the first time and didn't charge me an arm and a leg. The only shop I will use from now on is Import Sports Performance!

I thought this was a great place but when hearing phil talk badly of other customers in front of customers I will not be going back. For me being in customer service I know what it's like to build that relationship with a client and hearing them talk badly about another customer is distributing. Who knows what else they say about their other customers who have been loyal. Shows the kind of people they are and it's very unprofessional for a business owner. They will no longer be getting my service. And for future watch what you say to customers keep the bad talking out of your "professional" business.

Destroyed my engine, denied any liability. On my turbo install, they neglected to secure the hoses connecting to the unbarbed T-fitting, causing the hose to blow off. The overboost damaged 2 of my 4 cylinders down to 90 compression within 24 hours. They were at 180 before the install. The engine is now "blown" and must be rebuilt, which they quoted me at $2500-$4000. They said they've done "many" turbo installs without securing hoses to unbarbed T-fittings. Unbelievable.

In short, these guys did an amazing job, and were super pleasant to work with! To elaborate, I have been looking for a good performance shop for years; Import Sports Performance put a turbo kit on my '95 Civic and had it tuned nicely in less than a week! They have a well stocked shop; any additional flanges, oil feed lines, etc. that may be needed, they seem to have on hand. This saved a lot of time. The last turbo car I had built was in a different shop 3 weeks, mainly waiting on parts to arrive. After that time, that car still had exhaust leaks AND oil leaks. Like I say, I needed a good performance shop; Import Sports are my guys, from now on, and I give them the best recommendation possible! The work they did was fast, very clean and tight. Plus, they're super nice. I had a great experience, and I really appreciate that. =]

I felt it was pretty unfair. I dont know if there is some type of law about telling your customers about charges prior to working on your car but I paid it and will never be going back there and bad karma to them for dping that.

Explained my needed repair work in layman's terms since I know very little about cars other than I need them to get me from point A to point B without breaking down. Since this was my first visit, I did not give them a 5 star because I need more time to evaluate more service down the road, of which I will have them do the work. Very impressed on my first visit!

I highly recommend anyone with a performance car with a aftermarket ecm to bring it down and have steve work his magic! Great place for women to take their vehicles. I went in for a simple oil change in my STI and I had a few questions about synthetic vs. standard oil. They not only answered my questions, but gave me a thorough explanation of why they made their recommendation. They also offered up additional information, which was refreshing, because even though it's not the 1950s, most auto shops won't go in-depth with a woman. I will be returning here for all of my scheduled maintenance.

I really like Import Sports. The stupid shop that we were going to take our aging Corolla to wanted to charge us $90 just to figure out what was wrong with it, and kept trying to get us to agree to an oil change even though we didn't know if the car was worth fixing. I had been to Import Sports before for some work on my Mazda RX-8, and even though they usually deal with sports cars, they took care of my Corolla, too. Which is good, because it seems like it's so hard to find auto shops you can trust, these days.

Absolutely superb service. Staff is incredibly knowledgeable and doesn't miss a thing! They rebuilt my entire motor for racing applications and provided a ton of advice as I was doing most of the work myself. On top of it all...they are honest! I wanted to do alot more to my engine which would cost a pretty penny more, and they advised against it due to my application. Saved me thousands. I would recommend this shop to anyone for preformance work or just regular car maint! A+

After trying several other mechanics who could not correctly diagnose my BMW's issues or tried to sell me on unnecessary repairs, I found this shop. In a matter of about an hour or less, these guys had fixed an annoying minor issue that no other mechanic even bothered to check, as well as had the majority of the issues figured out. I have only had one visit and there is still one issue in diagnosis test mode (that no one else had bothered to do), but I have every confidence that my car will be repaired correctly here. These are top level, highly skilled mechanics.

Hi, my name is Pablo. The first time that I went to Import Sport was in 2006 when I wanted to get into drag racing, I had a little problem with my car and a friend of mine told me about the place, from that moment to present me and my family have been taking all the cars to Import Sport. Last year I tried different people that work with race cars to work in mine and before the track (Bandimere Speedway) closed, I was back with Sam Park at Import Sport, now I don't have any doubt that this is the best place to take your car either you have a race or regular car. A little bit about my car...It is a street/race 97 Honda Civic coupe with a GSR motor totally built with 700+whp which I drive frequently and it has everything as a regular car...from a nice stereo system to donut, jack and emergency tools, not like some people that as soon as they hit 700hp it's a race car and they have to tow it to move it around. (my car is not max out yet, but it will get max out this year).

my car needed; a tune, rewelded exhaust flange, fix my turbo timer, flush my fluids, fix my passenger side window, and replace the ball joints, and fix my passenger lug stud. originally estimated to be $600. after fixing my exhaust and ball joints and fluid flush and before they could tune my civic i had to replace my injectors because import does not tune on anything other than rc injectors. this costing me an extra $150. as another issue the couldnt get it on the dyno till the car was properly alighed. Alignment adding an additional $100, after everthing i was told friday sam was goin to be installing the injectors and tuning the car. when once again another issue came up and that was i had a bad throttle body,i couldnt afford to have any issues so i took the car that friday home and same day had it towed down to pfi were they had a tech come out and check my thottle body, it just needed to me adjusted. So my impression of import is that they really are picky about what parts they will tune. my car was never tuned after a total of $1100 i expected better, i can say my car rides way better because of the alighment, ball joints and, cv axel.i will probly never return to import and i will spread the word of events that took place hopefully saving other people from the same mastake i made.

I have a 2000 saab 9-3. I was already on the way to this shop to have a shimmy looked at when my car stopped holding idle. I managed to get it to the shop by feathering the gas. Turns out my throttle body was crapping out. [keep in mind that I'm a skeptic and my brother in WA is a mechanic, so I checked prices/diagnoses] They replaced the throttle body and had my car back to me the next day. I drove it home and noticed a slight rattle. I took it right back. They had me take it on a test drive with one of the mechanics and (of course) the rattle is gone. He guessed that the shimmy was due to a bent axle and I set up another appointment. His guess was right, but sadly it was the tip of the ice berg. My engine mounts had failed, the engine had sagged, and under load, I had bent the front axles. Feeling bad for me, they offered a discount on one of the engine mounts and free labor for its' replacement. I go out and get in the car and there is that rattle again. With hardly a wait, a mechanic was out at my car. He quickly found the problem: a hose wasn't clicked into its' special holder thing. Silly saab and their silly caveats. These guys were courteous, knew what they were doing, and very quick about getting my car back to me.

You guys always do great work and I feel confident when I leave that my car is 100% This web site you have is a nice addition but what I would like to see is the history of my car. I see what my milage was when I left but what was it on my last visit? What is the date of my last visit? How many miles until my next scheduled servicing so I can plan to have the money ready for it at that time? These things will make your site more personal to me the customer and make me want to check back more often. When that is happening, I can see your offers for winterization checks on my radiator or a deal on other work you do. What do you think?

In these tough economic times, great service with outstanding value is hard to find. Rest assured these places still exist and Import Sports is one of them. I've always taken my car to get serviced at a long time family mechanic, but unfortunately for me, he retired this year. One of my buddies recommended Import Sports and to be honest

I was a little weary considering I've used the same mechanic through the years. When I first called, the salesman was very professional and patient with me and explained the services they provided as well as costs. This impressed me so I scheduled an appointment for an oil change and tune up. I was to bring the car in at 9 A.M and it was scheduled to be picked up at the end of the day. To my surprise the car was finished at noon. When I picked up my car, it had been washed and the interior vacuumed (my old mechanic never provided that service)! Service was prompt, friendly, and professional. I appreciate my buddies recommendation and feel fortunate that I've found a great shop.
